

THE GOOD THAT GREENE DID US.

Some of His Officers Who Remained in Carolina.

From the News and Courier.

Ever since the Revolutionary war the people of this country have been under the impression that Greenes' army redeemed this State from the British, but recent investigations among contemporary documents disclose the fact that it was not Greenes' army of Continentals that saved this State, but Sumter's militia and State troops, and while it cannot be denied that Greene's army rendered great service in the South, yet, in the vernacular of the day, it was "not the whole thing," and it is time that the genius of Sumter and of Rutledge should receive the credit for having kept Cornwallis in the South and saved Washington's army from being crushed between Clinton and Cornwallis.

But to Greene's army South Carolina is due much for the number of good and true men that it left here as citizens when it moved away. Just how many men from Green's army remained in these parts is unknown, but the number must have been very large if we are to judge by the number of conspicuous officers who remained here and became prominent in the affairs of this State.

First there was Brig. Gen. Mordecai Gist, of the Maryland line. After the Revolution he remained in South Carolina and married, in January, 1784, Mrs. Mary Cattell. Her maiden name was McCally, of Philadelphia. Gen. Gist named his two sons States and Independence. He died July 9, 1792, and was buried in St. Michael's Churchyard. His grandson, Brig. Gen. States Rights Gist, gave his life for the Confederacy on the bloody field of Franklin.

Lieut. Col. William Washington, commandant of the 3d Continental Light Dragoons, from November 20, 1778, to the close of the war, came to South Carolina some months ahead of Greene, but his regiment formed a part of Greene's army. At the close of the war he remained in Charleston, where he had married a Miss Elliot, and his former town residence is still standing at the northwest corner of East Battery and Church street. He also left descendants whose names grace the annals of this State.

Lieut. Col. Lewis Morris, Jr., of Gen. Greene's staff, remained in South Carolina, where he had married, in February, 1783, Miss Ann Elliott, daughter of William Elliott. He was a native of Morrisania, New York, and a son of Lewis Morris, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. He became fully identified with South Carolina; lived at old "Accabee" plantation, and left descendants in this State.

Major James Hamilton, of the 2d Pennsylvania, came to South Carolina after the capture of Yorktown, and, having retired from the army January 1, 1783, settled in South Carolina. His son, James Hamilton, Jr., was Governor of South Carolina in 1830-32, and subsequently removed to Texas, whence he was sent to the United States Senate.

Major Evan Edwards, of the 4th Pennsylvania Continental regiment, also settled in South Carolina, (after his retirement, January 1, 1783, where he married. His descendants have ever since been prominent in the political, commercial and social life of the State.

John Markland came to South Carolina as a captain in Wayne's Pennsylvania brigade and served to November 3, 1783, after which he settled in Charleston, and in 1788 entered into copartnership with John McIver, as Markland & McIver, and published the City Gazette for some years. He died February 25, 1837.

Enos Reeves, who also came to South Carolina as a captain in the Pennsylvania line, settled in Charleston and married Miss Amy Legare, and has many descendants in this State. Capt. Reeves kept a diary during his service in the army, which has been published lately by the Pennsylvania Historical Society.

Capt. Nathaniel Pendleton, of Virginia, who served on Gen. Greene's staff, settled in South Carolina and in October, 1785, married Miss Susannah Bard, of Savannah.

Lieut. Adam Gilchrist was another officer of the Pennsylvania line who settled in Charleston after the Revolution. He became one of the wealthiest merchants in the city; married a daughter of Dr. John S. Budd, of Charleston, and was the father of the Hon. R. B. Gilchrist, at one time United States District Judge for South Carolina, and of Mrs. Cogdell, wife of John S. Cogdell, the banker, sculptor and artist.

Major John Forsyth, of the Virginia line; Capt. Thomas B. Bowen, of the Pennsylvania line; Capt. Patrick Carnes, of Lee's Legion; Capt. Archibald McCalester, of the Maryland line; Lieuts William Murren, George Reid, James Johnston, and William Thompson, of the Pennsylvania line, and Dr. Benjamin L. Perry, of the Pennsylvania line, also remained in South Carolina, and were among the founders of the Society of the Cincinnati in South Carolina. A. S. Sallee, Jr.

Some of the special trains which were chartered to hurry physicians and prominent men to Buffalo when it was announced Friday that President McKinley was dying made new running records, and with all the high speed there was not an accident. A special over the Lake Shore, chartered by Senator Hanna, covered the distance from Cleveland to Buffalo in two hours and thirty minutes, the average speed being sixty-eight miles an hour.

Ex-President Cleveland's attendance upon President McKinley's funeral was the first time he had visited Washington since he left the White House on March 4th, 1897. That day he rode down Pennsylvania avenue with William McKinley and came back only to ride in the procession of his successor's funeral. It is noted that President Cleveland is now the only living ex-president, and that since his first election in 1884 three of his predecessors, Grant, Arthur and Hayes, and both his elected successors, Harrison and McKinley, have died. His own presidential opponents were Blaine and Harrison, both of whom are dead. Mr. Cleveland is 64 years old but despite the hard work he has done and the sport he has enjoyed he is said to be in better health now than for some years past.

What State Names Mean.

"What's in a name?" asks the poet; yet many names are full of meaning, and contain historical associations well worth remembering. For example, see what is to be found in the names of the states:

Maine takes its name from the province of Maine, in France, and was so called as a compliment to Henrietta, the queen of Charles I., who was its owner.

New Hampshire took its name from Hampshire, England. New Hampshire was originally called Laconia.

Vermont is French (Vert mont), signifying "green mountain." Massachusetts is an Indian word, signifying "country about the great hills."

Rhode Island gets its name because of its fancied resemblance to the Island of Rhodes, in the Mediterranean Sea.

The real name of Connecticut is "Quoneh-ta-cut." It is a Mohican word, signifying "long river."

New York was so named as a compliment to the Duke of York, whose brother, Charles II., granted him that territory.

New Jersey was named for Sir George Carter, who was at that time governor of the Isle of Jersey, in the British Channel.

Pennsylvania, as is generally known, takes its name from William Penn, the "sylvania" part of it meaning "woods." Literally, it is "Penn's woods."

Delaware derives its name from Thomas West, Lord de la ware.

Maryland was named in honor of Henrietta Maria, queen of Charles I.

Virginia got its name from Queen Elizabeth, the "Virgin Queen."

Kentucky does not mean "dark and bloody ground," but is derived from the Indian word, "Kain-tukee," signifying "land of the head of the river."

The Carolinas were named from Kannas de Flores, or, "feast of the flowers."

Alabama comes from a Greek word, and signifies "land of rest."

Louisiana was so named in honor of Louis XIV.

Mississippi is a Natchez word that means "father of waters."

Three or four Indian interpretations have been given to the word Arkansas, the best being that it signifies "smoke waters," the French prefix "ark" meaning "bow."

Tennessee, according to some writers, is from Tenasea, an Indian chief; others have it that it means "river of the big bend."

Ohio has had several meanings fitted to it. Some say that it is a Suwnee word, meaning "the beautiful river." Others refer to the Wyandotte word "Oheza," which signifies "something great."

Indiana means "land of Indians."

Illinois is supposed to be derived from an Indian word which was intended to refer to a superior class of men.

Wisconsin is an Indian word, meaning "wild, rushing waters."

Missouri means "muddy water."

Michigan is from an Indian word, meaning "great lake."

The name of Kansas is based on the same as that of Arkansas.

Iowa is named from an Indian tribe—the Kiowas; the Kiowas were so called by the Illinois Indians because they were "across the river."

The name of California is a matter of much dispute. Some writers say that it first appeared in a Spanish romance of 1590, the heroine being an Amazonian named California.

Colorado is a Spanish word, applied to that portion of the Rocky Mountains on account of its many colored peaks.

Nebraska means "shallow waters."

Nevada is a Spanish word, signifying "snow covered mountains."

Georgia had its name bestowed when it was a colony in honor of George II.

The Spanish missionaries of 1524 called the country now known as Texas "Mixtecapah," and the people "Mixtecas." From the last word the name of Texas is supposed to have been derived.

Oregon is a Spanish word, signifying "vales of wild thyme."

Dakota means "leagued," or "allied tribes."

Wyoming is the Indian word for "big plains."

Washington gets its name from our first president.

Montana means mountains.

Idaho is a name that has never been satisfactorily accounted for.—Morning Star.

White Man Turned Yellow.

Great consternation was felt by the friends of M. A. Hogarty, of Lexington, Ky., when they saw he was turning yellow. His skin slowly changed color, also his eyes, and he suffered terribly. His malady was Yellow Jaundice. He was treated by the best doctors, but without benefit. Then he was advised to try Electric Bitters, the wonderful Stomach and Liver remedy, and he writes: "After taking two bottles I was wholly cured." A trial proves its matchless merit for all Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. Only 25c. Sold by J. F. W. DeLorme, Drugist.

The Shamrock-Columbia race was called off yesterday on account of light winds which prevented the completion of the race within the time limit. The Columbia outsailed the Shamrock in the light wind.

The Rev. C. F. Wells, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."
